Members of the Media;

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Good morning!

Good morning,

It is both a privilege and a profound honour for me to be able to express my gratitude during this significant occasion.

On behalf of the entire staff, I extend heartfelt gratitude for the inspiring words shared here today. The signing of the memorandum of understanding with PowerCom marks a monumental forward step in our ongoing mission to make Windhoek the safest in Africa.

I wish to express my heartfelt gratitude to PowerCom for their donation of state-of-the-art CCTV cameras. This investment represents more than just a material offering; it symbolizes a shared commitment to safeguarding our neighbourhoods, empowering our officers, and fostering trust within our community.

The installation of these cameras will have an impact on our policing efforts. With them strategically installed in key locations throughout the city, will significantly strengthen our ability to prevent and investigate crime.

These cameras will therefore serve as vigilant guardians, capturing crucial evidence that will aid in resolving incidents and apprehending criminals. Moreover, their presence will act as a powerful deterrent, discouraging criminal activity and promoting a safer environment for all residents.

But, beyond their immediate use in law enforcement, the employment of technology, in particular CCTV cameras offers vision for the future of policing, one that values innovation, transparency, and accountability. With innovative technologies at our disposal, we can build better and more trusted relationships with the communities we serve.

Moreover, the protection of telecommunications infrastructure is a matter of national security. In order for us to improve our telecommunication standards to a world-class level, there needs to be a deliberate and coordinated effort between the security cluster and custodians of telecommunication towers, such as PowerCom, to strengthen security measures and safeguard Namibia's infrastructure and with this initiative we believe this will be achieved. We look forward to a productive working relationship going forward, which will go a long way in ensuring that security is guaranteed.

Borrowing from PowerCom's organizational values, Driven, Agile, Reliable, and Ethical, forming the acronym DARE, let us dare to envision a Windhoek and Namibia we can all be proud of. Let us be bold in advancing innovative ideas that position us alongside the leading nations of the world; and let us dare to believe that, through our collective efforts, Windhoek can become the safest city in Africa, one that we will live in a great condition for the next generations to enjoy.

This is the ideal time for PowerCom to come on board as our partner. This collaboration will help curb the recurring disruptions to telecommunications caused by theft and vandalism, while also serving as a strong deterrent to criminal activity. Smart initiatives such as these ensure that not even a fly can go unnoticed, a clear warning to would-be criminals; “Big Brother is always watching.”

Director of proceedings,

Ladies and gentlemen,

I would also like to thank the Mayor of the City of Windhoek Cllr. Ndesihafela Larandja for taking time to grace this occasion

All Staff from PowerCom, CoW including men and women in uniform
